

THE MANHETEN MURDERS.

The murder of CHARLES and ANTHONY MURRAY (colored) by ALBERT A. ALVIS (white) Saturday night, 6th inst., at Manchester, Va., was in our judgement, without palliation or excuse.

We have read the accounts of the unfortunate affair as given out, not only by a prejudiced press, but by ALVIS himself, and they show that this white man acted without judgement, and fired without reason.

The most serious offense, with which the murdered men were charged was that of being disorderly, and using improper language on the public highway.

For this offense, only a fine would have been placed against them. They had not stolen any property. They had not burglarized any one's house. They had not assaulted a white woman; neither had they committed murder.

They had imbibed too freely out of a white man's whiskey-barrel and were accordingly feeling good over the performance.

ALVIS, in his right senses went to deal with men who were confessedly not of their right minds. He would have been just as much in order to have fired upon and killed a lunatic as he was in shooting down these men.

If he did not have sufficient help, with which to make the arrest, he should have secured it, before making the attempt. He knew where he could have secured them at any hour of the night. But no, he must exercise his authority; he must demonstrate that he had a pistol and he must use it to the death.

The close range, the deadly aim show that he did not fire only to subdue, but to kill. He pointed the finger at the weapon to kill. As a result, a heart-broken mother sheds tears over the graves of the fallen ones.

It is not at all surprising that this murderer should express regret over the affair. The blood of CHARLES and ANTHONY MURRAY is upon him, and sleeping or awaking, their mournful cries are ever present in his ears.

The child of ALVIS, ALVIS, will never look upon his father as a clean handed parent. He is stained with human blood. The prayers of these men's mother will meet you ALVIS at the throne of God and your cowardice in taking the lives of those who were near and dear to her will be an omen of the fate which will surely overtake you and yours.

Would you have fired so recklessly if these men had been white? Would you have killed your neighbors? Would you have blamed an officer had he not killed relatives of yours, who were near and dear to you; but, who perceive imbibed a little too much whiskey?

When a man leaves this world, ALBERT A. ALVIS, he is gone forever. There is no coming back, save parchment in the spirit to haunt the murderer. We will leave it to him ALBERT A. ALVIS to decide whether or not you were coward and killed this mother's sons without the proper excuse or justification.

The minister has spoken words of farewell over their remains. The funeral director has carried them out to the place of interment. The grave-digger has lowered them into the yawning chasm, and the clouds of the valley have told in mournful tones that they were murdered by ALBERT A. ALVIS.

Perechance you may wonder to the place where they are sleeping, and maybe you will feel the remorse of a murderer at the graves of your victims. Be that as it may, no stone-mason of America can make this side of this veil of tears bring consolation to the heart of that mother, or bring pardon from those right-thinking conscientious people who have been so rudely shocked by the heinous nature of your crime. Well says Shakespeare,

"But man, proud man, Drest in a little brief authority, Most ignorant of what he's most assured, His glassy essence, like an angry ape, Plays such fantastic tricks before high heaven, As make the angels weep."

GEN. BLANCO, who succeeded Gen. WYLER in Cuba is endeavoring to institute reforms in that plague-ridden island. He has a rough road to travel. Time alone will end the struggle, which is liable to last ten years or more. These sporadic out-breaks are closely associated with the history of the island.

It is to be hoped that a solution of the difficulty may be at hand. The acquittal of PAUL DAVIS, the colored youth charged with criminally assaulting CORA TWIGGELL, a white girl is the proper consummation of a truly celebrated case.

He has suffered much. Placed in the Henrico County jail, he was shot and so dangerously wounded as to be regarded fatally injured. He was tried, convicted and sentenced to nine years in the Virginia penitentiary.

The evidence against him was perjured, and it has been since proved that a most dastardly attempt was made to bring him within the reach of the gallows.

In this as in many other similar cases, the accused was penniless, and it was only by the efforts of friends that he has succeeded in securing his liberty.

GEORGE W. THOMAS, Esq., (white) the well-known ex-commonwealth's attorney of Henrico County deserves much credit for his plucky fight. Associated with him was W. M. JONES, Esq. To the efforts of DAVIS may ascribe his liberty, and that he should value it is plainly manifested to every one who has taken the trouble to inform himself relative to the facts in the case.

LEADERS' ISSUE.

Canada's Premier Comes With a Message of Peace.

TO SETTLE ALL CONTROVERSIES.

The Canadians Attach Little Importance to the Bering Sea Dispute, and Will Endeavor to Settle More Especially the Alien Labor Difficulty.

Washington, Nov. 9.—The authorities here have been advised that the arrival today of Sir Wilfred Laurier, premier of Canada; Sir Louis Davies, minister of marine in the Laurier cabinet, and other officials of the Dominion is to have an important bearing not only on the Bering sea settlement, but on all the pending questions which have sources of international competition between the United States and Canada, namely, the passage of alien laborers into Canada, the North Atlantic fisheries question, the presence of many Americans in the Klondike territory belonging to Canada and in the mining areas of British Columbia, the fishing privilege granted over rights in the Fraser river, British Columbia, and in the Puget sound, and also the question of a reciprocity arrangement between the United States and Canada.

There is direct and definite information that Sir Wilfred Laurier prepared to take up all the questions, and if possible include them in one general settlement whereby the constant friction they have engendered may be avoided. On some of these subjects he will confer with President McKinley, and on at least one of them, that relating to alien laborers crossing the border, he will suggest such mutual concessions as may be made in his opinion will be of material advantage to the thousands of Americans now in the Klondike and British Columbia, and to the thousands of Canadians along the eastern border.

The other side of the Laurier's mission were communicated to the officials here by a person fully advised of the premier's plans, and it can be said that the success of the decision of the Laurier's mission was the clearing of existing disputes between Canada and the United States met with favorable results.

The Bering sea settlement occasioned the visit, the Canadian authorities attach much less importance to it than they do to the other questions mentioned. Little doubt, it is said, is felt by the Canadians that an amicable adjustment of the pending questions is made. Among the plans suggested is that of an indemnity large enough to permit Canada to buy back the retired men from the business. With this done, the United States, Great Britain and Canada would be together in a suppression of pelagic sealing.

Under the Canadian premier's direction, the immigration law last spring, by which American contractors and American laborers were barred from competition in the work on the new Canadian railway, a government undertaking in western Canada. On the other hand, the Canadian government has agreed that about 6,000 Americans are in the Klondike territory belonging to Canada, and that fully 10,000 American contract laborers are working in the mines of British Columbia. The United States immigration laws, it is asserted, are administered with harshness along the Canadian border, and are a daily source of irritation. Sir Wilfred is prepared to offer a repeal of Canadian restrictions in the Klondike and other regions if the administration of the American law is made more lenient.

On the matter of reciprocity, the general purpose of the negotiations will be to give the United States the benefit of the Canadian tariff, and the present Canadian law in exchange for the 20 per cent reduction allowed under the Dingley law. The desire of Sir Wilfred and his associates is to confine the arrangement to a few important articles, allowing time to develop its usefulness and extend its scope.
